

A three day course in Teaching and Learning for clinicians involved in Oral Surgery and Dental Education

A BAOS SUPPORTED TRAINING COURSE

The course is designed to be educational, interactive and practical with limited places to allow for student participation and support.

It follows on from the successful inaugural course in Edinburgh in October 2009. It will be run by dynamic tutors in the pleasant environment of the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh.

It is recognised for 19.5 CPD points.

Short description	This short course is designed for those involved in supporting teaching and learning in oral surgery and dental education contexts. It provides both theoretical and practical insights into learning, teaching and assessment concepts, strategies and resources. It will be an interactive course with examples and methods appropriate to oral surgery and dental education and will be based on a theoretical understanding of how learners learn and participants practice. The overall aim is to make you a better informed and effective clinical teacher.
Pre session task	You will be asked to bring along: A session plan for a clinical teaching session that you have been involved in (i.e. tutorial, lecture, 1-to-1 teaching) for discussion. A non-clinical practical skill that you may be asked to deliver in a 10 minute microteaching session.
